The Dark, Rich Hues of Falling Leaves are Reflected in the Autumn Creations for Women and Misses

We Specialize in Apparel at Moderate Prices

No one can say that any particular feature of new fashions is permanent or fixed. If that were true you could buy all you needed for a whole season in one week and how tired of them you would be. Once an attractive style is introduced and approved by an "artist," a dozen clever designers will find inspiration for adaptations and innovations. Thus the fashions are ever interesting, ever changing and mirth is ever charming. New styles appear at Rosenwald's as soon as they appear in New York and are adopted by women of fashionable discrimination. Tomorrow we will feature the new arrivals at prices that are moderate indeed.

SCHOOL BOARD TO HOLD A MEETING TONIGHT

WILL TRAVEL ALL NIGHT TO GET TO FAIRS

Grade Congestion to Be Considered; Who Will Help Boy Stay at High School? Truant Officer on Job.

There will be a meeting of the city school board tonight. The board will consider certain cases of congestion in the grades, especially in the Second ward. Bids for fuel will be received.

Next Monday marks the end of the period in which beginners may enter school. All those who have not applied by that date will be barred from admission.

The truant officer, A. F. Earlandson, was instructed today to begin his round-up. The school board will entertain no nonsense about the truant law. The law will be enforced.

All children between 7 and 14 years of age must go to school and so must children over 14, if they are not employed.

There is a bright and ambitious boy at the high school who needs a bit of kindly help if he is to gain an education. A sister, a working girl, is the only one on whom he can depend now for aid, and the task of keeping the boy at school is too great for her alone. If someone will give the boy a chance to work for his board and room he will be able to stay at school.

Communicate with School Superintendent John Mine, if you are interested.

This will be a musical year at the high school. There is an orchestra of 24 pieces and a chorus of 85 voices. Miss Jessie L. Trott is in charge of them. She expects great things of both organizations.

"As shown by the record in this case, not only is the proof evident but also the presumption is great that the offense as charged in the information was committed."

The brief on behalf of Lawson was prepared by Horace Hawking and Edward P. Costigan. It declared that the supreme court has authority to grant bail where the defendant has not been condemned to death, and that in the past it had been customary to admit bail when a supersedeas had been granted.

"The August report of the matron of the association shows a large number of girls helped in all stations of life, proving that the Y. W. C. A. is a friend to not only the girls earning low salaries but also to those not having a penny. The Y. W. C. A. is in no way a charitable organization but it never turns a young woman away and its aim is to give any girl away from home a homelike place to live, setting before her the ideal of how to live the balanced life in body, mind and spirit, making toward greater efficiency in the bringing of the Kingdom of God on earth.

Denver, Sept. 12.—Briefs were filed in the Colorado supreme court today regarding the proposal to admit to bail John R. Lawson, former strike leader, now in jail at Trinidad under sentence of life on a charge of first degree murder. Since Lawson's conviction the supreme court has granted a supersedeas in his case and also has issued a writ of prohibition barring Granby Hillyer, the trial judge, from presiding in future strike trials. In granting the supersedeas the court left the matter of bail to be decided after the summer recess.

Attorney General Fred Farrar in a brief resisting the admission of Lawson to bail held that as the defendant had been convicted of first degree murder he should be kept in confinement pending action by the supreme court when it reviews the case on October 1.

The rights of membership are not bought by the membership fee, rather the fee is a contribution which each woman makes to the common fund.

The woman paying one dollar a year has as much responsibility as the woman paying one hundred, also as many rights and privileges. Each woman has a voice in the electorate or voting of the association when she contributes to the religious work or the organization, and every woman and girl, whatever her station in life, has a right in the association sisterhood. Thus membership imparts a spirit of comradeship, the French express it, of "camaraderie"—it signifies a purpose to stand together in a self-governing organization whose ideal is to influence the women of all the community for Christ. The woman or girl who is studying, the one who has leisure, she who works with her hands, and she who earns her living with her brains, may do many things together and come to realize each something of the others' lives. Thus becomes more abundant to us all.

The local association has just about outgrown its childhood days and, today, stands at the threshold of greater service in every way to the community.

In order to serve in the best way possible, the time is not far distant when the citizens of Albuquerque must ask the services of a larger building fully equipped with swimming pool, gymnasium, rest rooms, recreation rooms, cafeteria, etc., for nobler pursuits of life, health and happiness.

The Young Women's Christian Association is but one of the many religious and social organizations that is broadening and specifying its work to meet the need of service revealed by the appalling failure, not of Christianity, but of ourselves in failing to teach Christ's plan for the welfare of our cities.

Special emphasis is more and more being placed upon the membership and the association must become a democratic, unified force, projecting its life of Christian ideals, Christian character and Christian methods of service into the community, in other words, the self-expression of each member is made possible. And yet, the association has not wholly reached this stage of democracy, but each year it comes a little nearer to its goal.

Because the membership of the Y. W. C. A. is essentially democratic, its aims and activities are alike the concern of all the members and the expression of membership is found in the one word "service."

If the young women, who are members of the Y. W. C. A., could only realize that as members of the association they may truly help solve some of the social and moral questions that affect them, make the city they live in better socially and morally, then many more would joyously take on the responsibility for service that membership involves.

The Young Women's Christian Association is organized as a great sisterhood and is more an association than an organization, and the power of the whole movement is its membership. It is the controlling power.

As in our United States government, so it is in the association, the members as a whole vote to give power of rule to the officers.

The Y. W. C. A. is in no way a charitable organization but it never turns a young woman away and its aim is to give any girl away from home a homelike place to live, setting before her the ideal of how to live the balanced life in body, mind and spirit, making toward greater efficiency in the bringing of the Kingdom of God on earth.

Denver, Sept. 12.—When the military court of inquiry opened its third week of work today, the investigation of charges against Adjutant General John Chase and other officers of the national guard of Colorado practically had been completed. It was expected that the remainder of the inquiry would be devoted largely to testimony relating to an alleged plot to wreck the militia and secure indemnities against state and militia officers and coal operators said to have been entered into by attorneys and detectives employed by the United Miners of America.
